What's up with me.

JessGo Gallery creates urban splash in suburban oasis

(VAUGHAN, Ont.) Toronto's best-known urban artist is once again breaking the mold by bringing her cutting-edge contemporary art north of the city into a brand new studio gallery.

The gallery, a 1,000 square-foot open space, showcases Jessica's latest collection of pop/contemporary/modern art. Fashioned after the modern art spaces often seen in Toronto's trendy Queen West, the gallery's bright and spacious design is the perfect venue to view Jessica's stunning, lively pieces.

"I love nature, I love life, I love colour and I love bringing it all together in a way that hasn't been done before," says Jessica. "No wonder groundbreaking artists like the Group of Seven found their inspiration here! There's so much that is waiting to be discovered."

While York Region is home to some awe-inspiring galleries in Kleinburg and Unionville, there is very little to please the area's growing demographic of young professionals who long for the spirit of the city in the serene setting of their new uptown home. Jessica's gallery is the answer to that.
